

Online Academy

We are happy to offer you something very special this year, also due to the situation. Instead of bothering you with boring product information and technical details, we take you to the customer, your customer, or rather your potential customer. We will show you very simple applications and problems at the end customer on site. We want to give you the confidence to offer our chemical products to the customer and ideally to start a great project in which we assist you from the technical side.

All courses will take place on Microsoft Teams. We have always one presenter and one host who is taking care of the Chatbox and asking your questions to the presenter. The main presentation will be very open and interactive. Our goal is not to talk about products and technical specifications. We would like to take you with us on a journey to the various environments and possible applications as well as end users for your business.

To participate please just click at ENG at the end of every course.
